Foreign medical education and its problems

In the wake of the Ukraine war after the homecoming of Indian med-ical students, the situation has nised certain points to ponder over. It is known that roughly 20,000 students or so were studying medicine in Ukraine, a rimppines, Germany, Nazawissan, Nepar, Bangiatesh, etc. The Chief res sons of going abroad are (1) inability to secure a seat in Indian medica colleges because of tough competition, (2) the high cost of medical edu coneges because or tought colleges in India, and (3) admission is possible with much relaxed standard. The WHO recommends one doctor per thousand of nonulation, but in India the ratio is 0.8 ner 1000. India needs 1.38 million of doctors against the present 1.2 million registered practitioners. To have a quality check of the students going abroad, the million of dectors against the present 1.2 million registered million registered million registered panel, the encountering control of the property of the pro

Best of the performance was in June, 2021, 4,283 passed out of 18,048 aspirants showed slight improvement of 23.7%. The minimum qualifying mark is 150 out of 300. Medical graduates from the UK, USA, Australia, Canada and New Zealand are not required to clear FMGF. Similarly. India turients have to pass the United States Medical Licensing Evansi USMLE) to practice in the USA. It is also reported that there has been dis parity in terms of salary packages as compared to Indian counterpart they get less. Those who could not clear FMGE, some are working in non icing fields and even in restaurants! Now govern sion that with effect from 2023 onwards all the medical grad ates both of Indian medical colleges and foreign-returned doctors will b equired to clear Medical Exit Test Examination before being allowed to tractice. This is a good step forward to enhance the standard of medica ducation to an acceptable uniform level. The proposed National Exit Tes vill replace existing NEET PG test and FMGE. To cope with higher demand n seats, India must increase number of medical colleges on PP model of truction of 430-bedded hospitals for a strength of 100 intakes. SC order on sedition law path-breaking

The Supreme Court's order keeping the sedition law under Section LAV and of the Indian Penal Code in abeyance is path-breaking. Equally significant is that now excharges will be registered under the law and all pending trials, appeals and proceedings will be suspended. Whether Section 1244 is removed from the stathet books or amended to prevent gross missus, the process of reaching that decision must be open, transport and inclusive. And this process must not prejudge the final decisions. gross missue, the process of reaching that decision must be open, transported and relocative, and the process and not projective for fixed decision of the property and relocative, and the process must not projective for fixed for experiment of the property of the proper caught in its not activists and almost anyone whose oni ion annoved the Centre or state governments. It is certainly remarkable that there are 800 cases of sedition currently being heard and 13,000 per use of it. Though the Centre has not indicated a time its review of the sedition law, this would be an opportune time for it to re consider other laws that impinge on human rights. Foremost among then is the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act or UAPA, under which an ac cused is presumed guilty unless proven innocent, which militates agains basic constitutional guarantees.

nronicle Foreign medical education and its problems

In the wake of the Ukraine war after the homecoming of Indian med-ical students, the situation has nised certain points to ponder over. It is known that roughly 20,000 students or so were studying medicine in Ukraine, a rimppines, Germany, Nazawissan, Nepar, Bangiatesh, etc. The Chief res sons of going abroad are (1) inability to secure a seat in Indian medica colleges because of tough competition, (2) the high cost of medical edu coneges because or tought colleges in India, and (3) admission is possible with much relaxed standard. The WHO recommends one doctor per thousand of nonulation, but in India the ratio is 0.8 ner 1000. India needs 1.38 million of doctors against the present 1.2 million registered practitioners. To have a quality check of the students going abroad, the million of dectors against the present 1.2 million registered million registered million registered panel, the encountering control of the property of the pro

14.2.% and performance of Pakistan and Bangladesh topping the list with 29.6% and 27.11% respectively and that of Usraine is 14.87%. Best of the performance was in June, 2021, 4,283 passed out of 18,048 aspirants showed slight improvement of 23.7%. The minimum qualifying mark is 150 out of 300. Medical graduates from the UK, USA, Australia, Canada and New Zealand are not required to clear FMGF. Similarly. India turients have to pass the United States Medical Licensing Evansi USMLE) to practice in the USA. It is also reported that there has been di parity in terms of salary packages as compared to Indian counterpart they get less. Those who could not clear FMGE, some are working in non tiring fields and even in restaurants! Now govern sion that with effect from 2023 onwards all the medical grad ates both of Indian medical colleges and foreign-returned doctors will b equired to clear Medical Exit Test Examination before being allowed to tractice. This is a good step forward to enhance the standard of medica ducation to an acceptable uniform level. The proposed National Exit Tes vill replace existing NEET PG test and FMGE. To cope with higher demand n seats, India must increase number of medical colleges on PP model of truction of 430-bedded hospitals for a strength of 100 intakes. For, this apital is needed to the tune of Rs 500-600 crore. One option is to allow capital is needed to the time of 18 500-500 crow. One option is to allow oper duality residing hospitals like aplich, forst and Mediantal groups of hospitals etc., with excellent quality teaching staff, to start medical excellent quality teaching staff, to start medical excellent quality teaching staff, to start medical endoction, it may be a value on. SC order on sedition law path-breaking

The Supreme Court's order keeping the sedition law under Section LAV and of the Indian Penal Code in abeyance is path-breaking. Equally significant is that now excharges will be registered under the law and all pending trials, appeals and proceedings will be suspended. Whether Section 1244 is removed from the stathet books or amended to prevent gross missus, the process of reaching that decision must be open, transport and inclusive. And this process must not prejudge the final decisions. gross missue, the process of reaching that decision must be open, transported and relocative, and the process and not projective for fixed decision of the property and relocative, and the process must not projective for fixed for experiment of the property of the proper caught in its not activists and almost anyone whose oni ion annoved the Centre or state governments. It is certainly remarkable that there are 800 cases of sedition currently being heard and 13,000 per ause of it. Though the Centre has not indicated a time its review of the sedition law, this would be an opportune time for it to re consider other laws that impinge on human rights. Foremost among then is the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act or UAPA, under which an ac cused is presumed guilty unless proven innocent, which militates agains basic constitutional guarantees.
